Written Communication
General Education Skill Competency and Knowledge Objectives

“Written communication is the development and expression of ideas in writing. Written communication involves learning to work in many genres and styles. It can involve working with many different writing technologies, and mixing texts, data, and images. Written communication abilities develop through iterative experiences across the curriculum.” Excerpted with permission from Assessing Outcomes and Improving Achievement: Tips and tools for Using Rubrics, edited by Terrel L. Competency and Knowledge Objectives

Upon completion of the Written Communication component of General Education, a student will be able to

1. Use flexible writing process strategies to generate, develop, revise, proofread and edit texts.
2. Adopt strategies and genre that are appropriate to the rhetorical situation.
3. Use inquiry-based strategies to conduct research that explores multiple and diverse ideas and perspectives, appropriate to the rhetorical context.
4. Use rhetorically appropriate strategies to evaluate, represent, and respond to the ideas and research of others.
5. Address readers' biases and assumptions with well-developed evidence-based reasoning.
6. Use appropriate conventions for integrating, citing, and documenting source material.
7. Read, interpret, and communicate key concepts in writing and rhetoric.

Depending on placement, many students will need to complete two courses in Written Communication to achieve the above competencies and knowledge objectives.
