STATE BOARD CREATES EDUCATION CHOICE MAP FOR IDAHO

Data on Idaho parents' education choice options across the state are now available in an easy-to-use, accessible format.

With this data, parents can see where the closest public, charter, alternative and private school is located, giving them information to make the best education decisions for their children: <http://tiny.cc/PrivateSchoolsInIdaho>

The new interactive map focuses on helping parents understand what education choices they have local to them, no matter what county they live in across the state.

A link to this data is included in the latest edition of 'The Facts' which is now posted on the State Board of Education's website: <https://boardofed.idaho.gov/resources/fact-book/>

The new edition of The Facts also informs Idahoans on the state's increased higher education enrollment trends, degrees and certificates awarded, and the return on investment for students and the state.

“We know that Idahoans and our Legislature want more information about how Idaho's education system operates. With this interactive map, Idaho parents can know where and how they can get the best education for their children, regardless of their zip code. This new map on education choice makes a major stride towards this goal,” Board President Dr. Linda Clark said.
